

Elk, moose, and deer drop their antlers each winter. In the summer, antlers start to grow back. When antlers grow back, males use them to fight with other males.

